Wednesday, 27 January 2021 | 4:00pm - 5:00pm | English

Dear SIP student interns,

If you wish to...

- know the daily duties of the investment bankers
- have an idea of the jobs available in an investment bank

Don't miss this!

Investment banking is an important component of the financial system. In essence, investment banks are a conduit for investment between investors and borrowers (i.e. corporations and governments) through stock and bond offerings, merger and acquisition as well as derivative products etc. Behind the glamour of the sector, what do the investment bankers actually do on a daily basis? What are the jobs potentially available in an investment bank in times of uncertainty?

Join this webinar organised by the Financial Services Development Council (FSDC), where senior executives will share their personal experience advancing in the investment banking sector as well as how students can grasp the career opportunities.
